1. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Disclaimer:

The following responses have been provided primarily for the purpose of information exchange among EMN NCPs in the framework of the EMN. Note, however, that the information provided does not necessarily represent the official policy of an EMN NCPs' Member State.

The European Commission has assessed the compliance of Luxembourg legislation with Directive 2014/36/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 February 2014 on the conditions of entry and stay of third-country nationals for the purpose of employment as seasonal workers. Articles 5(1) and 6(1) of the Directive set out the criteria and requirements for admission for employment as a seasonal worker for stays not exceeding 90 days and for stays exceeding 90 days, respectively. These articles also list the documents that a third-country national should enclose to his/her application.

While the Commission acknowledges that Luxembourg has correctly transposed the above provisions of the Directive into the specific articles of the Law of 28 August 2008 on free movement and immigration concerning seasonal workers, it considers that the provisions of general application of this law, also applicable to seasonal workers, go beyond the requirements of the Directive by providing that a third-country national who intends to stay in Luxembourg for a period of up to three months may be obliged to undergo a medical examination in Luxembourg and that a third-country national who wishes to stay in Luxembourg for more than three months shall undergo a medical examination in Luxembourg before his or her residence permit is issued.

The Commission also considers that Luxembourg has not transposed Article 23 (1) e) of the Directive, which states that seasonal workers are entitled to equal treatment with nationals of the host Member State in respect of access to and supply of goods and services, other than housing, without prejudice to the freedom of contract in accordance with Union and national law.

Seeing the number of questions this ad-hoc query will count as two ad-hoc queries.

We would like to ask the following questions:

1. Does the legislation of your Member State provide that a third-country national who intends to stay on the territory of your Member State for a period not exceeding 90 days is required to undergo a medical examination?

Available choices: Yes, No, Not Applicable

2. If you answer YES to Q.1, is the medical examination optional or compulsory?

3. If you answer YES to Q.1, does the medical examination has to be carried out after the entry in the territory of your Member State? YES/NO. If you answer NO, please explain what is the procedure.

4. If you answer YES to Q.1, does your Member State requires that third-country seasonal workers staying for a period not exceeding 90 days to undergo a medical examination?

Available choices: Yes, No, Not Applicable

5. If you answer NO to Q.1, how does your Member State checks that the entire condition for the third-country nationals who intend to stay on the territory no more than 90 days is respected as stated in Article 6 (1) e) of the Schengen Borders Code? Please explain.

Schengen Borders Code = Regulation (EU) 2016/399 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 9 March 2016 on a Union Code on the rules governing the movement of persons across borders

6. Does the legislation of your Member State provide that a third-country national who intends to stay on the territory of your Member State for a period exceeding 90 days is required to undergo a medical examination?

Available choices: Yes, No, Not Applicable

7. If you answer YES to Q.6, does the medical examination is compulsory or optional?

8. If you answer YES, to Q.6, does the medical examination has to be carried out after the entry into the territory? YES/NO. If you answer NO, please explain.

9. f you answer YES to Q.6, does your Member State requires that third-country seasonal workers staying for a period exceeding 90 days to undergo a medical examination?

Available choices: Yes, No, Not Applicable

10. If you answer NO to Q.6, how does your Member State check that the entry condition for the third country nationals for staying in the territory more than 90 days, consisting in the fact that the third-country national must not be considered as posing a threat to public health is met? Please explain.

Please take into consideration that the Directive 2014/36/EU and other Directives mentioned the threat to public health as a requirement for refusing entry to the territory.

	EMN NCP Belgium	Yes	1. YES – Generally speaking, Article 3, 10° of the Immigration Act states that a foreigner coming to Belgium for a short stay, may be refused access to the territory if he or she suffers from certain diseases that the Law further specifies. In the context of an application for a work permit for a period not exceeding 90 days, not specifically designed for seasonal workers, Article 14 of the royal decree of 9 June 1999 states that: In Belgium, a first-time application for a work permit for a foreign worker must be accompanied by a medical certificate stating that there is nothing to indicate that, in the near future, the worker will become unfit for work because of his/her health status. If the employee is abroad, this medical certificate must be issued by a doctor recognised by the Belgian diplomatic or consular officials abroad. The medical certificate must, at the earliest, be issued three months before the application date. If necessary, the medical certificate must be translated by a sworn translator into one of the languages of the region responsible for issuing the work permit. The latter provision only applies to the Brussels-Capital Region and the German-speaking community. Not to the Flemish and Walloon region, for whom only Article 3, 10° of the Immigration Act is applicable. 2. Compulsory.

			3. NO (see answer Q1). A medical certificate established abroad has to be joined to the application for a work permit for a period not exceeding 90 days. This medical certificate must be issued by a doctor recognised by the Belgian diplomatic or consular officials abroad. 4. The Brussels Region and German-speaking Community will ask the Immigration Office whether a medical certificate was added to the application, the Walloon and Flemish Region will not. 5. N/A 6. YES, Article 61/25-2, §1 5° of the Immigration Act prescribes that 5°, except when the third-country national applies for a renewal of his/her single permit, a medical certificate is required proving that the applicant does not suffer from any of the diseases referred to in the Annex of the Immigration Act. 7. Compulsory. 8. NO, this depends on where the foreigner applies for his work permit (if this happens on the national territory, he or she may obtain the certificate on the national territory, otherwise the medical certificate must be issued by a doctor recognised by the Belgian diplomatic or consular officials abroad). 9. YES, Article 61/29, §5 1° of the Immigration Act prescribes that Seasonal Workers staying for more than 90 days on the territory must present a medical certificate which certifies that he or she does not suffer from certain diseases that the Law further specifies.
